| K-What I know | W-What I want to know | H-how I will learn | L-what I learned |
|---|---|---|---|
| The South Africa has food security issues, and the government is intended on addressing those issues.Digital Earth Africa is a kind of technical innovation as the Open Data Cube to promote solving the South Africa's food security issues and benefiting social-ecological sustainable development. | How can an innovative technique be applied to help solve the food security issues?What the government considers to be the most important issues and influence in addressing food security and what kind of measures it would accept? | Our team will learn by doing research on a wide range of topics, including papers, official statistics, government reports, international news and reports on the work of international organizations, etc.Our team will brainstorm at regular meetings to synthesize findings and develop subsequent directions for the project. | The South Africa's food security issues will mainly appear in those aspects: poor food productivity, natural disasters and the current epidemic, the impact of adverse policies. The Digital Earth Africa has some products and measures to help ease those issues. |